BROWNELL, DEARBORN AND HORWOOD PICKED

Last Elimination Oratorical Contest
Was Held Last Evening at High School.—Medal
Events Friday.

The third and last of the elimination oratorical contests was held at the high school last evening at seven-thirty, when eight speakers competed.
They were Hyzer, Smiley, Horwood, Dearborn, Brownell, Field, Atwood and Schoof. Out of this number the judges found it a very difficult matter to pick the three best, and it was only after a thorough review of the men, in a long conference, before they were able to determine the winners. Allan Dearborn, Stanley Horwood and Gar-ret Brownell were picked as the three best, with Willard Field as the alternate.
Smiley and Field were, in the opinion of many, two of the strongest of the eight men. Their elimination came rather as a surprise.
In the contest on Friday night the three winners picked last evening will compete, and will have the same speeches that they used last night.
These speeches are taken from some of the contestants, as in the other case.
This distinct difference is the reason for there being two contests this year.
In the original contest for the Lovejoy medal, Horwood and Dearborn are the only entries. Both of these orators have mastered two speeches each, one of which they wrote themselves, and the other of the original. A close fight is expected by these two men in both events.

OVER FIFTY ENJOYED DELIGHTFUL BANQUET

Shopiere County Y. M. C. A. Group Held Annual Banquet and Program on Tuesday Evening.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Shopiere, April 22.—The first annual banquet for the county Y. M. C. A. group in this city was held at the Congregational church parlors last evening. Thirty-one boys and twenty fathers were present, and the repast was served by ladies of the church.

The program followed the banquet, and was extremely interesting.
Albert Melenz of Milwaukee, chairman Wisconsin state boys' work committee, gave a steam-riding talk on Shopiere's Greatest Investment.
He was followed by H. J. Schuchman, chaplain of the group, who read the chaplain's address, in which the latter extended congratulations to the men of the county for the work achieved
during the first year of organization.
Then, Mr. Schuchman, chairman of the state county work committee, chairman, and takes a great interest in the work.

Scion Cooper, one of the Rock county committee-men, gave the impression in his talk on the work in the county at large, and also read a report on the recent meeting at Madison.

Charles Smith, leader of the Shopiere group, is to be given much credit for his work among the boys,
and he should be greatly encouraged, when he left for Joliet, by the attendance and interest shown last evening.

L. A. Markham, county secretary from Janesville, attended the banquet and gave a few remarks on the work in the county. The Mesdames Spicer, Spicer, Overton and Uehling have done much lately in boosting the organization, and deserve their share of the credit, as it is distributed.

OBITUARY.
Mrs. John Peel.
The death of Mrs. John Peel, daughter of the late John Thoroughgood of this city, occurred a little after six o'clock this morning at her home in Joliet, Illinois. Mrs. Peel lived in Janesville up to about seven years ago, when she left for Joliet to make her home. When in Janesville she was a member of the Trinity church.
Other announcements will be made later.

Mrs. Robert W. Clark.

OWEN GIVES HEATED DENIAL TO CHARGES

MADE BY GOVERNOR

Attorney General Says People of State Are Not Interested in Mc-Govern Disquisition.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., April 22.—"The people of the state will not be interested in the governor's disquisition on peanut politics," said Attorney General Walter Owen today, when he asked for a statement regarding the governor's denial of a special session of the legislature for the purpose of reducing taxes next year. They are interested in more important things than the governor's utterance concerning them, in the consideration of which they will not be frustrated by spiteful flings concerning factional politics further than to pace in amazement at the undignified spectacle presented.

Owen Makes Denials
"Their coming tax bill challenges their interest. It is admitted by all that the governor himself, that the appropriations of the last legislature were large and the tax levy high. It may be noted right here that with this situation the state officers, other than the governor, had nothing to do and were at all times powerless to prevent. So far as I am concerned I can say truthfully that the only motivation for my action in this matter was to secure a reduction of the next tax burden. I deny that the plan of presenting a petition to the governor was 'hatched in the dark.' I deny that the head of any department's commission was called into any meeting to attend by the governor, and I deny that I further uniquely deny that secrecy was enjoyed upon any such officer by me or by any one in my presence or to my knowledge."

"The fact that the governor was not cognizant of this plan until it was presented to him is scant justification for the broadside charge that he was 'hatched in the dark.' If the governor was not consulted, it was not without reason, for he is understood that from the time he issued his Bull-Moose proclamation he has not consulted a single state officer, so far as we know, upon any question of state or party policy."

Governor Too Suspicious.
"This attitude of self-sufficiency on his part has not suggested or invited confidence between himself and the other state officers. A governor who is so suspicious and super-sensitive nature has pictured in his imagination many boys-men to disturb his political career, his dire political plot against the state, and the state officers, acting under their constitutional rights of petition, is nothing more than a creature of suspicion and imagination. A dignified man is not to be regretted that the governor did not respond in a like manner."

The absolute futility and impossibility of calm, judicial conference with him is perfectly manifest from the intemperate and undignified language which he has employed. The governor's conduct is a disgrace to the office, and it is to be regretted that
the governor did not respond in a like manner."

The governor's conduct is a disgrace to the office, and it is to be regretted that the governor did not respond in a like manner. The governor's conduct is a disgrace to the office, and it is to be regretted that the governor did not respond in a like manner. The governor's conduct is a disgrace to the office, and it is to be regretted that
the governor did not respond in a like
manner."

Those who signed the petition to the governor asking for an extra session of the legislature proceeded upon the assumption that when an appropriation was made by the legislature for a specific purpose the appropriation was to be carried out by the administrative and executive officers of the state and that they would act in conformity with the statutory mandate. Without intending to in any way impugnate or frustrate the accomplishment of results the governor claims he can achieve without legislative assistance.
I want to call attention to the fact that the appropriations for the year 1915, and the legislative acts during 1914 are the duty of the secretary of state to see that such money is on hand in the state treasury, when made available by legislative mandate. I am willing to concede that the governor may be able to prevent such appropriations from the public treasury for the money in the state treasury, but he may find some difficulty in keeping it in the pockets of the taxpayers, and that is the real result sought for."

NEW LAW DEPRIVES FARMER OF MARKETS

Western Corn Growers Will Especially Suffer as Result of New Tariff Says Correspondent.

(By Winfield Jones.)
Washington, D. C., April 22.—Under the Wilson administration and the Democratic tariff law the American farmer is losing his markets.

The complete loss to Western corn growers of their products, the New England market, is a serious matter.
The New England market, which has been a staple market for the New England farmer, is being lost to the New England farmer by the Wilson tariff law, which is reducing its rates on grain hauled from the seaboard to interior points.

Beginning May 1st, the entire New England market will be opened up as a market for Argentine corn, a new tariff for grain and grain products on the New England system going into effect on that date.

There is great concern in this the more publication of a new tariff, for it really means that the Eastern railroads have realized the necessity of adjusting themselves to the new situation which the Wilson tariff created. Most of the roads showed a willingness to make a new bound rate on corn that would be on a workable basis, although the New England farmer is protesting against a satisfactory agreement has at last been reached.

The New Haven has heretofore imposed on billing corn through from New York on a local tariff and the New England farmer has been a loser there. The result has been that almost the whole New England territory was cut off from the benefits of the cheaper Argentine corn. The distinction at first was to regulate the portations of only temporary character, but the New Haven officials have finally come to believe that they are permanent, and furthermore,
are impressed by the immense business now being done in the New England market.

According to an official report the new Argentine corn crop amounts to 345,000,000 bushels, which will leave an exportable surplus of 255,000,000 bushels, the greatest ever raised in the history of that country, or some 15,000,000 bushels more than the record crop of last year. Already heavy engagements of this new corn have been made for shipment to the United States, and the first of it has actually been received at Galveston, although it will not really begin to arrive in large quantities in New York until after May 1st, when the new freight rates go into effect.

Heretofore the farmers of the corn-growing states have supplied New England with corn. Heretofore, Argentine corn has been shipped to New England from the coast, and the New England farmer has been a loser there.
The result has been that almost the whole New England territory was cut off from the benefits of the cheaper Argentine corn.

What will then be the gross shrinkage of prices by American corn farmers? On the basis of 700,000,000 bushels not fed by farmers and available for export, the market for the farmers this year in the north will be somewhere from $70,000,000 to $100, 000,000.

This is the sum to be charged against the Wilson administration and unrestricted competition with cheaper labor and labor in foreign countries.
This is the bill of expense which the Democratic tariff bill must answer for.
Only a part of it, of $100,000,000 is against the Democrats. An enormous increase of imports of foodstuffs has followed free-trade in farm products, and the result is that the current year will run up high bills of millions of dollars' worth of markets taken away from American farmers and countries.

AUSTRIA TRIES TO STOP

Vienna, April 22.—The attempt of the Austrian government to prevent the loss of any more "army material"

Interior prohibiting the emigration of all men between the ages of 17 and 35, is having a serious effect upon

of smuggling emigrants across the line of campaign against Mexico City by land on the railway line from El Paso south to Chihuahua, which has so often been used by the various Mexican factions within the last three years. This is dependent upon a decision by the administration that a state of actual war exists and which issued to before the restoration of the embargo on the exportation of arms

across the line into Mexico.

At the White House cabinet officials with General Agent Robert Lanning of the state department, aided the president in formulating his response to Carranza.

At the war department Secretary Garrison, General Wetherston, chief of Staff General Leonard Wood, who has been selected to command
the army in Mexican operations, and General E. W. Weaver, chief of the coast artillery, held several conferences today. Orders from the war department directed Fort Sam Houston to stop all importation of arms directed to the Huerta forces across the border at Pedras Negras.

This leads to the report that the embargo on arms has been raised, although the department hesitated to do so until the exact attitude of the federalists and constitutionalists.
Some officials state that it was very probable that no arms would be allowed to cross the border, although the department hesitated to do so until the exact attitude of the con-stitutionalists for the United States can be demonstrated.

Situation on Border.
The situation on the Mexican border was the subject of all today's conferences. Any contemplated movement of the army to Vera Cruz by transport, it was reported, would be held up until the border conditions would permit withdrawal of all troops there.

WILLIAM STANNARD PAYS LOCAL GUN CLUB A VISIT

Yesterday afternoon a few members of the Janesville Gun Club held a practice shoot at the traps and William Stannard, nationally known trap shooter, paid the Janesville club a visit. Mr. Stannard is a former Janesville boy and was loud in his praise of the grounds and the success of the Janesville club.

The scores were as follows:

Score	Shot at	Broke
C. E. Synder	75	55
H. W. McNamara	100	75
H. Eldredge	100	75
Wm. Lawrence	100	75
Wm. Stannard	100	75

NEIGHBORS' FIVE WINS FROM "BIG SIX" SQUAD

Neighbors and his five jumped in the percentage column in their match with Abraham's "Big Six" at Miller's last night. The Big Six losing by 3-2. Tonight the teams of Cook and Osborn are matched. Neighbors' team, 2462. Abraham's team, 2190.

Sport Snap Shots

President Gilmore of the Feds doesn't mind admitting that he has designs on a few of the Giants. The latest thing in the way of a rumor tells us that a raid will be made on the Giant camp this week. At least three of them will shortly wear Fed uniforms. Of course such a proceeding would tend to hamper the Giant's chances in the National league race, but Gilmore seems to show very little feeling in this regard. Doyle, Nerke and Tesreau are the Giants mentioned in the report which Gilmore has not contradicted. Should this trio leave the Giants in a body the latter would feel the loss very little. It has been said that Rube Marquard approached Gilmore and expressed surprise that he had not been asked to join the Feds, but as far as has been heard nothing came of the tube's advance.

According to St. Louis sport writers, Baumgardner, the twirler of that city, would be a world-beater save for his mysterious habit of blowing up in the seventh. As a rule he is unshittable up to that point, whereupon he goes to pieces. Maybe it would be a better idea to start him in the third inning.

In the last ten years the Boston Braves have won eight of their opening contests. Proving pretty well that it's unlucky to win an opening game.

The Japs seem to be taking a lively interest in tennis as well as baseball. W. M. Johnston and Ella Fottrell, the Frisco tennis stars, who won the Manila championships, declare that they found the hardest

Amusements

SEPTEMBER MORN.

"September Morn" has found her way to the stage. Dave Lewis has been given an important trial, found guilty in the first degree and sentenced to star in the new musical frivolity for a long term.

"September Morn" is in three acts, with songs, mirth, melody, happiness

Frank Tannehill, Jr., staged the production. "September Morn" has just finished a profitable run at the LaSalle Opera House, Chicago.

Miss "September Morn" now bolts up as a musical comedy with Dave Lewis as the star. "September Morn" is offered by Rowland & Clifford's big musical comedy company, which includes Minerva Coverdale, Frances Kennedy, Arthur Millar, Fred DuBois, Louis Kello, Joe Doner, Jessie Webster and Dave Lewis—the original joy for the first time in this country, among the lot the Shark-Swish Dip, which is now the rage in London, England.

Miss Coverdale is called "The American Gaby Deslys," and besides being a clever little actress and singer is seen in dances now the rage in Paris.

The attraction comes fresh from the LaSalle Opera House, Chicago, where it created a sensation and is among the LaSalle's biggest successes.

PLAN AN EXHIBITION FOR LOCAL BOXERS

Bower City Athletic Club Expect to Hold Big Matches During Fair.

Efforts are being made to stage a local boxing show, under the auspices of the Bower City Athletic Club before putting on another big match. The plan would be to put on three or four bouts between boxers in Janesville, the main card to be between Battling Cox and a fast outside man. Several Janesville men have made application to the Athletic club for a chance in the squared arena and they all are confident they could make a creditable showing.

Young Nickols made a successful debut in the boxing game against Bobby Ward of Beloit in the last Janesville exhibition, and the fans here would like to see him take another whirl at the game, and several 125-pound youths here have asked to have a chance against him. Cox has not boxed in some time, and being a favorite among southern Wisconsin fans, would like to see him in action again, and if pitted against a good man the match should attract a great amount of local interest.

Walter Bauman, the Milwaukee athlete, and Spike Kelly are rematched at the Madison bouts, Friday night, and a number of Janesville fans expect to witness the bout. Kelly won his bout with Wildcat Ferns at Superior on a foul, and Bauman is anxious for another tilt against the middleweight champion, Joe Percente, who was matched in the first Janesville exhibition with Frank Linn, will box Linn Rowlands eight rounds in the semi-windup. Kid Williams and Young Scott, two lightweights, will furnish the mill in the curtain raiser.

WEATHER FORECAST

Mostly cloudy tonight and Friday. Possibly showers. Rising temperature.

ANXIOUS WAITING.

The days of watchful waiting have passed down in Washington and now it is anxious waiting. Vera Cruz has fallen. Tampico is being shelled. Foreign citizens are fleeing from Mexico City to the coast. Huerta remains defiant and Villa and Carranza hold repeated conferences. Where is the end remains a question. How will the stars and stripes once more fly over Mexican soil. The Mexican custom house, the Mexican railroad leading from the seacoast at Vera Cruz to the capital are both in the hands of the bluejackets and marines, and while no war has been officially proclaimed, it exists in reality, a stern reality, that startles the president. No wonder these are anxious waiting days in Washington. No one feels more keenly the responsibility for the present situation than does President Wilson. Whether the war is right or wrong in his attitude toward Huerta and his government, is a matter of the past. Action has come in a series of startling happenings and it is the duty of congress and of the citizens of the United States in general, to stand behind the administration at Washington in this critical period. Forget party differences, forget everything but that the United States is now making a formidable protest, by force of arms, against repeated insults to the flag we all glory in, and to individuals whose lives were dear to them but who proved to be the nation's fate. If we must have war let it be an honorable one and one that will go down in the annals of the world's history as a just one. We seek not additional conquest, merely reprisals for injury done our national honor and recompense for the loss of property to individuals. Our prayers should be with the sailors and soldier sailors of the great fleet gathered in the Mexican waters there at the orders of the president, in these perilous times.

FAKE NEWS.

Bad news travels fast enough without scheming newspaper publishers seeking to advance the sale of extra editions of their yellow journals by sending out advance notices of disasters which never happened and resignation of prominent cabinet officials who never thought of resigning and who, in fact, could not be driven out of office until forced to by the retirement of their political allies. These false reports just at this time are listened to by many and are firmly believed, even when contradicted later. The Gazette seeks to furnish its readers with a plain, unbiased report, as free from sensationalism as possible. A member of the great news-gathering association known as the Associated Press, with a corps of trained correspondents at all the Mexican ports, in the very capital of the sister republic. Men who have studied the situation for months in advance of the happenings that are now occurring, it promises accurate accounts of all events. Fake news is to be deplored even if it does sell a few hundred extra copies for some enterprising owner of a yellow sheet, and while the genuine news is bad enough at best it will be furnished as fast as received in the regular editions of the Gazette, in extras and by bulletin service. Coming as it does from the Associated Press it can be relied upon.

GO TO CHURCH SUNDAY.

There is more need for the observance of the slogan, "Go to Church Sunday" now than when the crusade started. Sunday next will be a memorable one in the history of the United States. It will mark the seventh day of a struggle with a sister republic and it is just and fitting that every resident of Janesville should attend divine worship, to pray for the safety of the soldiers and sailors of the United States upon water and land in these troublesome times. We are a Christian nation and while we are not perhaps, a religious nation, still any citizen would resent as an insult the charge he was not a Christian. Go to church Sunday and become acquainted with your pastor, with the teachings of your children, and once you have tried may you continue a regular visitor.

TIME TO CONSIDER.

There is plenty of time to consider the question of the advisability of purchasing the Janesville Water company. The election does not come until May 12, and by that time the voters ought to be thoroughly acquainted with all the facts of the case. If they desire to increase the bonded indebtedness of the city by several hundred thousand dollars, to further bond the city to the expenditure of more money for repairs, renewal of worn-out machinery and old, antique water mains, they have the right to do so, but they should fully comprehend the question and understand that it means not the initial cost of the purchase, but added expenses each year in the shape of taxes with no real reduction of the water rates, but a constant drain on the pocket-book.

McGOVERN RIGHT.

Governor McGovern is right in not calling a special session of the legislature to discuss a reduction of state taxes. The only trouble with his attitude is that he must have known that these conditions existed long ago and made no move to adjust them until his attention was called to them in the startling manner of the non-partisan county conventions and the sentiment expressed at the town meetings on election day. However, it is never too late to mend, but when it comes to mending, it is not a wide guess the people are going to have something to say next fall as to who makes their laws, and if present indications point to any definite results it will not be any of the men now holding office.

Of course the boys of Ninety Eight are ready and willing to serve their country if needed. However, many of them do not cherish any too fond recollections of the mismanagement of the volunteer officers while in service and will hesitate about enlisting unless their services are really needed. However, times have changed and customs and management have also, and the soldier boys of 1914 will not have to undergo the annoyances of the soldiers of the last war. Uncle Sam understands sanitary conditions better and how to equip, feed and clothe his boys better now than a few years ago. It was a dear lesson but the recruits of the present war will reap the benefits.

There are a few small boys who have lost their faith in Dame Nature. Here was an opportunity to earn untold wealth, a hoard of Captain Kidd, by swatting the flies and selling the dead carcasses to the ladies of the Civic League at ten cents per hundred, and it is so cold that the flies will not come out to be swatted. They have picked off the days on the calendar and find that the month of April is an awfully short month and their faith in human nature is waning.

Clean up Janesville as it never was cleaned up before. Already owners of private alleys have caught the fever and are making strenuous efforts to make their property spick and span to pass inspection, but there are a lot of empty lots owned by individuals that no one will clean unless the owners do, and they should be urged to get busy also. Make Janesville a "spotless city of renown."

On The Spur of The Moment

The Village Pest.
Old Rod Skibbs was the village pest. And the thing he liked to do the best was to get all day in the grocery store.
And to spin yarns we'd all heard before.
He had Joe Miller's book down fine: He could speak it through, yes, every He'd spring some old chestnut and then.
He'd cackle like a barnyard hen. And then he'd set and was a wren. And when no one would crack a smile.
Old Rod would get just firm mad And tell five others just as bad. No matter what on earth took place He had yarn to fit the case.
Conceit sometimes would be dim. But it was all the same to him. He had a voice like thunder and He sure could talk to beat the band; He couldn't hear a cannon boom. When this old feller had the floor. Nobody had a word to say. For when he talked he talked all day.

Old Rod passed out nine years ago. Of course we don't know where pests go.
If he went where the weather's hot And tells the stories that he's got, And if he's there he surely must Tell all the stories or else but. 'Tis punishment in fullest need To folks down there—hades—indeed.

Uncle Abner.
Mr. H. Perkins has accepted his usual spring job and has started to work at it. The job is that of settin on a cracker barrel in front of Tibbitt's grocery and regulating the weather.
Grandpa Bibbins suffered a sad accident the other day. He stepped on his whiskers when he was walkin on Main street and fell to the sidewalk, breaking his New Year's pledge and a half pint of Old Moonshine.

Er. Purdy has traveled a great deal. He has ridden a sulky plow for Ame Hilliker for nine years. Postmaster William Tibbitts sold seven stamps last week. Elmer Jones must have a new gal somewhere that he is writin' to.
No. 17 was so late last Thursday that she waited at the station here three hours and was then right on time for the next day's run.

'Tis Hard to Say Goodbye.

1 p. m.—Really, dear, I must be going. I have a job to do. I have more engagements. Thank you so much for coming to the door with me. I'm so glad I called. Oh, by the way, did you hear that singing at the concert the other day? Wasn't that—
2 p. m.—Oh, yes. I saw that new suit she had on. It was in the window two weeks ago marked down to $9.00. Of course, the style is all right for anybody that likes it, but well, you know. Well, I must be going now. Oh, say, do you think you will go to—
3 p. m.—Yes, I think I will have it gored around the bottom. I don't like the accordion effect any more and they don't seem to be wearing them as much as they did. Well, I must be going now, dear. Oh, by the way, did you hear—
4 p. m.—No. I know she did four years ago. I know she did. Well, I must be going now. Oh, by the way, how about the bridge party next—
5 p. m.—She wore her pink taffeta. Honest! I agree that it was a lovely. I'd simply refuse to make my own clothes any longer. Oh, I really must be going now. Here comes your husband to supper. I really didn't intend to stay so long.

Personal.
Hortense—Give him an evasive answer, in other words, tell him to go to thunder, then he'll stick to you like a burr.

H. G.—Always wear a large puff tie with your dress suit when you go to a dinner party; this protects your shirt from the tomato-bouillon and you can make one shirt last a whole season.

Lester—You say your hair is coming out, and you don't know what to do. Well, you can use it to stuff a sofa pillow.

Angeline—No, indeed. Fine feathers do not make fine birds, but they make fine feather beds.

VERA CRUZ, TAKEN BY THE UNITED STATES, IS THE CHIEF PORT OF MEXICO

VERA CRUZ, which was occupied Tuesday by marines from the United States warships under command of Admiral Fletcher, is the principal seaport of Mexico, and is the gateway to the City of Mexico. Hundreds of ocean-going vessels enter the harbor every year, the port statistics for the fiscal year of 1909-10 showing 450 entrances and clearances, not including any of the vessels in strictly coastwise trade. Eight great passenger and freight lines connect Vera Cruz with Galveston, Texas City, New Orleans, New York, Cuba, the West Indies and the principal ports of Europe. Coastwise trade in and out of Vera Cruz harbor also is enormous, lines of ships connecting it with all the principal ports on the east coast of Mexico. Vera Cruz has passed through many phases, but the tide of wealth has increased continually year by year. It has a population of 47,500, besides a large floating element that comes and goes with the seasons and the tides.

MAY START A PROBE OF CHEESE COMBINE

Commissioner of Corporations May Investigate Conditions in Wisconsin.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., April 23.—There is a possibility that the so-called cheese combine in Wisconsin may be probed either by federal or state officials. The facts have been placed before Commissioner of Corporations Joseph E. Davies, at Washington, whose department is making an investigation of unlawful restraints of trade. It has also been called to the attention of the two United States senators and the congressmen of Wisconsin, whose governor is making an investigation of the matter. Attorney General Walter C. Owen.

The first action in this matter was taken last week at a meeting of the officials of the Wisconsin branch of the American Society of Equity in this city and last Tuesday at a meeting of the locals of the society in the counties of Marathon, Clark and Wood similar action was taken. Over 400 farmers attended the joint meeting of the three counties, which was held in Marshfield. Besides passing resolutions calling upon the federal government to prosecute, it also resolved that the governor should make an investigation and that the entire matter should be placed before Attorney General Owen, for prosecution as an illegal monopoly. The resolutions declare that the members of the different federal societies are not permitted to sell their cheese on the cheese board. The meeting was called by Benjamin Lang of Marshfield.

The fight against the so-called cheese combine was started two years ago by Former Senator Henry Krumrey of Sheboygan county.

WIFE MURDERER TO HANG AT EDWARDSVILLE, ILL.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Edwardsville, Ill., April 23.—Nikola Govrilovich, of St. Louis, was to be hanged today at the Madison county jail for the murder of his wife in a quarrel which followed her refusal to give him $150, the amount he spent in bringing her to America. He stabbed her seven times.

Rain as a Fertilizer.

Rain, especially when accompanied by thunder and lightning, has a fertilizing effect upon the soil. There is almost always ammonia in the air and this is carried by the rain into the earth. It has been calculated that a quart of rain water may contain about one-eighth of a grain of ammonia.

INSPECT WORK DONE BY CRUSHING PLANT ON COUNTY HIGHWAY

COUNTY SUPERVISORS TAKE AUTOMOBILE TRIP TO EVANS-VILLE THIS AFTERNOON

RAP STATE AID SYSTEM

Pass Resolution at Morning Session
Condemning Present Highway
Law and Favoring Old County Plan.

Members of the Rock county board of supervisors left at one o'clock this afternoon in ten automobiles on an inspection trip to survey the character of the work which is being done by Highway Commissioner C. E. Moore.

Mr. Moore believed that the new outfit will effect a great economy in road building operations in Rock county and is enthusiastic over the success of his new machinery. He expects to purchase the three other out-boards ordered by the board at the January session and place them at work immediately.

The new crushing plant as it is equipped for operations at the pits in the town of Union, embodies some original ideas of its own. Mr. Moore says it is a decided improvement over the ordinary methods of running such plants. By installing a hopper and elevator in the pit a saving of men in shoveling the gravel and stone to the machine effected as the entire work is accomplished by one man and a team.

After the gravel is elevated it falls on a platform of iron grating called the "gravel" which sifts out the sand which is carried at once to the storage bin. The stones and coarse gravel are carried to the crusher and then to a separate storage bin where the material is ready to be drawn to the road.

The bins are located in such a manner that the material can be drawn out onto the wagons by the removal of a slide so that every economy is effected in the handling of the sand and gravel.

The outfit as at present operated, furnishes material for eight or ten teams which are kept busy hauling to the road which is being resurfaced a short distance from the pit. Mr. Moore points out the great advantage of the crushing plant in the fact that it places at disposal for road building coarse material which would be otherwise available and which is needed for the same purpose. He did not have the crusher he would have to haul material several miles in numerous instances, a situation which adds greatly to the expense.

The work which is being done on the gravel road is entirely representative of an old county highway. As it is near the city of Evansville, Mr. Moore was able to conduct an interesting experiment in water binding which had provided most of the material of the material employed and with the addition of the water a hard, compact surface is secured at once which will show no marks from a team of horses and a team of mules. The material is mixed in a proportion of clay, serves as a shoulder to the crushed gravel and is spread lightly over the surface, serving further as a sort of cement. In fact, passers-by are assured that a cement road is being constructed.

Mr. Moore believes that the water binding treatment is a practicable method in many parts of the county and hopes to secure several sprinklers and storage tanks to be used on the gravel roads. He also hopes to secure in the repair of the older county highways which are now in need of resurfacing.

Rap State Aid Law.

The state aid highway law came in for a thorough condemnation at the session of the board this morning when Supervisor K. O. Peterson introduced a resolution admonishing the legislature to repeal the present law giving a substitute the old county system which was inaugurated with some discussion in which several members of the board expressed their disapproval. The resolution was unanimously passed. The county clerk was also instructed to inform the other county clerks of the state of the action of the board and to advise the legislature that such a sentiment might be created that the next legislature would act in response to the popular will.

This was the first action of the board which might be taken as an indication of the sentiment crystallizing throughout the state in opposition to the extravagance of the last state legislature. It was significant that the vote on the resolution was unanimous.

Mr. Manly Mosely announced the membership of the standing committee of the board at the morning session as follows: C. O. Peterson, chairman; C. J. Stoney, P. F. McGee, W. B. Maxson, at large.

No. 2—District attorney's report: O. A. Peterson, C. D. McCarthy, Charles H. Sykes.

WRIT CAUSES TANGLE IN M. GRIFFIN CASE

Attorney E. H. Ryan Granted Habeas Corpus Writ From Court Commissioner Carpenter.

Mabel Griffin was released from the Rock county jail last night due to a writ of habeas corpus granted yesterday afternoon by Court Commissioner E. H. Ryan to Edward H. Ryan, who is defending the Griffin girl. The attorney Ryan stated that the girl falls to show sufficient cause for action under the state statutes to constitute a crime.

The warrant on which Mabel Griffin was arrested divided into two counts, charging her with having an inmate and frequenting a disorderly house, and that she has heretofore been convicted of a crime in the Janesville municipal court, making her liable to a state prison term. In the claims for the writ it is alleged the state failed to show that the defendant frequented the house, as stated in the statutes and that the docket record of her conviction, May 3, 1912, by the circuit court, fails to show testimony and correct court procedure.

The state claims that at this date she was sentenced for ten days in the county jail and was fined five dollars on the charge of drunkenness.

The case will be argued before Court Commissioner Tallman on Monday, and meanwhile the Griffin girl is allowed her liberty.

20TH ANNUAL MEDAL CONTESTS WILL BE HELD FRIDAY NIGHT

Keen Competition Is Expected In All Events Tomorrow Evening—Oratorical Contest of Interest.

The twentieth annual medal contests in which the competitors will compete for two oratorical, declamatory, poetry, extemporaneous speaking, and a high school oratorical contest, will be held tomorrow evening at the high school auditorium, beginning at seven-thirty or soon after.

There is a keen interest shown in all five events, with the oratorical contest being watched most closely. The declamatory contest will be very interesting, for the reason that the three speeches to be delivered by the Misses Evelyn Welsh, Ruth Doherty and Betty Cornell are of a high class.

Following is the program for the evening:

Lovejoy Medal for Orators.
Recorder Medal for Extemporaneous Speaking.
Mahoney Medal for Poetry.
Loomis Medal for Declamations.
Alumni Medal for Oratorical Declamations.
Music—High School Orchestra.

HOUSE-BREAKER IS GIVEN SIX MONTHS

No Appearance Made in James and Locke Case and Action Is Held Over by Judge Maxfield.

William Douglas, arrested yesterday morning for breaking into the home of Edward Voletoz on North Bluff street, was this morning given a six-month term in the county jail by Judge Maxfield on the charge of daylight robbery.

Douglas pleaded guilty and after waiving his examination asked for immediate sentence. Entrance was gained into the dwelling by raising the rear window and although many of the rooms were ransacked nothing as yet has been missed. Douglas was spreading from his pockets money that was in clothes. The man, who is about forty-five years of age, said he owned a large farm near Edgerton, but he appears to be mentally unbalanced. The police found that he had been working on a farm near the city for several weeks and this discounts his statement of owning the Edgerton farm.

Mike Connors was given a flat sentence of ten days on his plea of guilty to the charges of drunkenness.

Charles Hoover, one of the men captured in the raid on the residence of Lulu Johnson, was given a six-month term in the county jail on the charge of breaking into the house of Edward Voletoz.

The department was seriously handicapped because the hose was strung across two railroad tracks, and as a passenger train was due to pass shortly after twelve o'clock they were forced to uncouple the hose to go under the tracks. All furniture had been removed from the front rooms and damage was confined to the rear part, side walls and roof.

INTEREST IS TAKEN IN LAKOTA MINSTRELS

Something doing every minute, is what the members of the Lakota Minstrels are doing. They are given at the Myers theatre on Tuesday, the 28th. The two end men have ordered black paint and the rehearsals demonstrate that this year's production will be superior to other amateur efforts produced in Janesville.

Three comedy acts will be given, each of which is an entertainment by itself and with the opening ceremonies containing a "laugh every minute" any amount of quips and retorts of local interest promise to give the audience a merry time. The musical numbers are unusually good and the program is filled with a medley of popular songs that should prove entertaining.

TO CLOSE COUNTY OFFICES SATURDAY AFTERNOONS IN JUNE, JULY AND AUGUST

By a resolution introduced by Supervisor J. H. Ekins at the county board meeting today it was ordered that the offices of the county officials at the court house be closed on Saturday afternoons during the summer months, June, July and August. Hereafter the county offices will be closed on Saturdays in July and August alone, but as Saturdays are slack days throughout the summer the employees will enjoy the privilege for an additional month this year.

MOOSE GIVE ANNUAL BANQUET TO LADIES

Two Hundred and Thirty-Five Present at Ladies' Night Banquet of Moose Lodge.

An elaborate banquet and a general good time was enjoyed by the Janesville Moose lodge number 197, at the annual ladies' night banquet given last night at the lodge hall on North Main street.

Two hundred and thirty-five were present, and following the banquet an excellent program was given.

Floyd L. Davis, dictator, presided as toastmaster and during the evening very few of the members of the Moose lodge escaped his remarks, and the speakers were introduced in a clever manner. William H. Dougherty was called on for a song, and the ladies and in a most gracious manner turned the attention of the people from the delicate subject of women to the Mexican war. According to Mr. Dougherty, women have been the subject of song, poetry and flattery and had become so vain that mere man could do them justice no more. Man had no chance to say his honest opinion of women for it was impossible and unwise to tell the truth and useless to bestow praise upon them.

Mrs. John L. Snyder in reply declared that she was very glad to be subject and would be "drier" when the women of Wisconsin are granted the privilege of suffrage. The hardest thing that was delivered on the banquet was a speech by Mr. Snyder, who proclaimed that when the Divinity, in making Eve, took a rib and all of Adam's brains and nearly all of his patience, to make Eve a woman, was taken from Adam, and when the toastmaster introduced as subject to vivid dreams presented a clever prophecy on the future of the members of the Moose lodge.

Master Snyder gave a recitation that tended to aid Mr. Dougherty in expressing derogative views on women's vanity.

James A. Fathers spoke on "Moosedom" and showed the growing strength of the modern organization which being able to profit by the experience and failure of other organizations, is spreading and benefiting to all corners of civilization.

The establishing of the training school for dependent children of the Moose at Mooseheart, Ill., was spoken of and which the speaker, Moose spirit to give sympathy to brothers in distress.

John L. Snyder and William Taylor were also called upon for remarks.

The banquet was the most successful of the many social functions given by the lodge, and while plates were laid only for one hundred and fifty, the members were able to accommodate the members and their guests. During the banquet and at intervals of the program, Kneff's orchestra rendered delightful music.

RESIDENCE DAMAGED BY FIRE THIS NOON

Hendrickson Residence on Western Avenue Partially Destroyed By Fire Starting From Stove.

An estimated damage of four hundred dollars was caused by fire at the residence of J. H. Hendrickson on Western avenue at noon today, the flames starting, it is thought, from an overheated coal stove in the kitchen. The fire department had just returned to the city from a fire on South Main street when the alarm was sounded. Chief Klein arrived at the dwelling first and found the flames, fanned by the high wind, spreading from the kitchen to the side walls and front part of the house. The small chemical hose from the chief's wagon were used to hold the flames in check, and the motor pump, arriving a few moments later, was used to reach the scene eight hundred feet of hose was laid from the last Western avenue hydrant, and after a stubborn fight the fire was put out.

The department was seriously handicapped because the hose was strung across two railroad tracks, and as a passenger train was due to pass shortly after twelve o'clock they were forced to uncouple the hose to go under the tracks. All furniture had been removed from the front rooms and damage was confined to the rear part, side walls and roof.

PLAN IMPROVEMENTS IN 'PHONE SYSTEM

Wisconsin Telephone Company Will Spend $25,000 in Extensions and Cables in City.

To enlarge and reinforce telephone facilities serving practically every part of the city the Wisconsin Telephone Company will spend $25,000 in improvements in Janesville this spring. With the proposed addition of 1,000 miles of telephone wire, as provided in the present plans, telephone facilities will be adequate to care for growth in all parts of the city until 1918.

Preparatory to making plans for increasing telephone facilities in Janesville, the Wisconsin Telephone Company made a study of the city's development. It was found that the city's growth and the increase in the number of telephone calls are based on the telephone company's plans to enlarge the telephone plant which is already one of the most modern in Wisconsin.

Most of the additional telephone wire, which would be sufficient for a complete talking circuit between Janesville and Milwaukee, Maryland, will be in cables. The largest size of cable will be run on High street, from Milwaukee to Lincoln street, and south to Oakland avenue. Another large cable will be extended from the office northeast on Wisconsin street to Cornelia street and on Cornelia to Walker.

This will increase facilities which serve the outlying territory. In the northwest part of the city an additional cable will be erected on Franklin street to Ravine and west on Ravine street to Pine. In connection with that cable another will be extended south on Ravine street on Madison to Bluff street.

Within the territory between Pleasant street and Mineral Point avenue from Palm street to the heart of the city, a large number of small cables will be extended from large existing cables. These small cables are called "laterals" and each will be large enough to contain, for example, the lines from all subscribers in a single city block. Subscribers' lines concentrated in this manner are more easily accessible in case of trouble. Some open wire is also to be removed and replaced by cable.

No provision means for routing the new cables from various parts of the city into the office, the underground system radiating from the exchange will be extended.

Although much of the proposed equipment will not be used for the present, it will insure the prompt and efficient handling of future demands for service.

The work will be started this month and finished by early summer. During its progress service will not be interrupted.

Bit of First Aid.

In cases of shock and collapse it may be advisable in certain cases where collapse is imminent to administer a little stimulant in the shape of brandy and water, but it has to be noted that the use of alcohol under such circumstances must be carefully carried out, inasmuch as in certain cases (as in apoplexy, for example) the administration of alcohol is calculated to prove highly injurious.

For Love Will Find a Way

"If at first you don't succeed in the game of love, don't get discouraged but try again—at least one more try."

This was evidently the attitude taken by a certain Janesville young man who, it is said, will soon be married to a young lady residing in Walworth county.

Several months ago the young man in question appeared at the county clerk's office, presented his physician's certificate as required by the Wisconsin eugenics law, and after the usual preliminaries secured a marriage license. He had every intention of wedding a Janesville young woman whom he had been courting assiduously for some time previously.

But alas! This young man's hopes for a cozy home were soon to be dashed. Most cruelly and heartlessly shattered. At the last minute, most embarrassing situation, the young lady balked. She had her objections to marrying, this particular young man at any rate, and the fact that preparations had been made for the wedding and that he had even secured his license did not matter one bit. She stood firm and no amount of persuasion could budge her; it is presumed, of course, that the young gentleman used his most persuasive powers. But she stood by her objections, whatever they were, and by her determination which was as firm as "the rock of Gibraltar."

What is the sequel? Was the young man discouraged? Did he lose his faith in womankind? Did he threaten suicide or to enlist in the Mexican war, the next thing to it? No such solution for him. His was a spirit of buoyant optimism. He did not propose to waste his time in useless pinning. He was bent on realizing his dreams of wedded bliss and a "home, sweet home, of his own." He knew of new fields in the game of love, and undismayed by his initial rebuff but hopeful for success in his next engagement, he set about to woo the fair maid of the neighboring county.

And he has been successful. He has secured the marriage license and if she has not already become his bride, she will in a few days. His second attempt has been crowned with success, at least no word of an eleven hour "renege" has been received. In two short months this enterprising youth has prepared twice for his wedding, the second time with success. Here's to the young man who perseveres in the love game, in the face of a stinging rebuff on the eve of his wedding, who can come back and win in eight weeks or less. May his kind increase, say we.

UNCLE SAM WILL KEEP A BIG FLEET IN MEXICAN WATERS

Rear Admiral Mayo and scene on his flagship.

Here's one of Uncle Sam's big fighting vessels that will stay in Mexican waters until the present troubles in the southern republic are over. It is the flagship of Rear Admiral Mayo, whose action in demanding a salute from Huerta led the president to send a powerful fleet to Mexico last week. Rear Admiral Mayo is in command of the American war vessels now at Tampico.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

THE DUTY ON "BLUFF"

IT is unfortunate that so many Americans accept money as the standard of the man. A man with a great deal of money is very successful; a man with very little is not. And as we all want to appear very successful, we like to pretend we have money, whether we have it or not.

It is this senseless pretense that is killing much of the pleasure in what should be a real joy—the opportunity to travel.

"I never saw anything like the way Americans tip," a much travelled Englishman told me. "Coming over on the steamer, I heard my steward talking with another. They were comparing their tips."

"Well," said my steward, "I've got another American down here; he'll probably give me a pound, and there's an Englishman in 33, but he won't give me more than five bob!"

The steward, knowing human nature, knew that he could expect three dollars and a half more from the American than he could from the Englishman. Not because he had rendered more service to one than to the other, but simply because one was American, the other English.

This is true all over the world. In some places those who fatten on tourists will appear in droves when an American ship arrives, and in handfuls when an English ship docks.

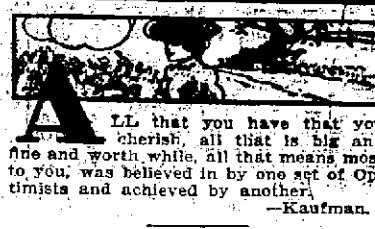

It would be nice to think that this was generosity on the part of the American. But it isn't. The Englishman tips for services rendered, a certain stated amount. The American tips for show, as much as he can afford, sometimes more.

There are some people who can follow the strain. But there are other Americans who, standing in their wake and traveling on a certain sum they have saved and which should cover all contingencies, are forced either to tip beyond their means, or suffer that annoyance which a servant can always subject you to, if he tries.

The practice of tipping, as far as Americans go, has grown all out of proportion. Those who wait upon us, when we travel, expect us to tip not for what they do, but for what we are, or what we try to appear to be—financially.

The American traveler, no matter where he goes, within or without our borders, must pay a heavy ever increasing duty on that well known but wholly worthless American product—"bluff."

THE KITCHEN CABINET

A CHAPTER ON NUTS.

The housewives are certainly falling in line with the progressive movement in regard to the menus using nuts, as our reports tell us of the thousands of bushels of increase each year in the United States' consumption.

The black walnut heads the list in nutritive value, is rich in oil and liked by many, although its strong flavor is not liked at first.

In any locality the nut that is there found in plenty should be used as a large part of the diet. The hickory nut is a most delicately flavored nut and most nutritious. When very dry if they are dipped in boiling water and allowed to stand a while before cracking the meats will come out in much better shape.

Walnut Loaf.—Take a pint of dry bread crumbs, one and a half cups of chopped nuts (do not grind them, as it makes them oily and really spoils the flavor if not used at once), season well with salt, add a bit of sage, two tablespoons of butter, one beaten egg and sufficient boiling water to moisten. Form into a long loaf and bake in a granite pan.

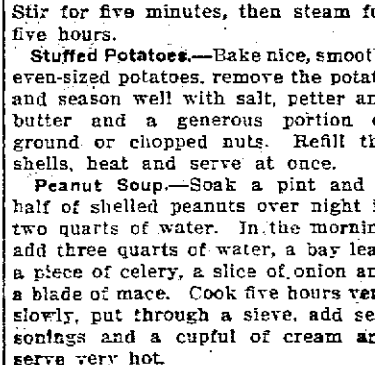

Peanut Meatloaf.—Mix well a cupful of cornstarch in two cups of tomato juice, add two cups of peanut butter and two tablespoons of salt. Stir for five minutes, then steam for five hours.

Stuffed Potatoes.—Bake nice, smooth, even-sized potatoes. Remove the potato and season well with salt, pepper and butter and a generous portion of ground or chopped nuts. Refill the shells, heat and serve at once.

Peanut Soup.—Soak a pint and a half of shelled peanuts over night in two quarts of water. In the morning add three quarts of water, a bay leaf, a piece of celery, a slice of onion and a blade of mace. Cook five hours very slowly, put through a sieve, add seasonings and a cupful of cream and serve very hot.

Women Worth While

MADAME G. OLEJEVSKI.

By Selene Armstrong Harmon: eleven-months-old son of Mrs. Colville Barclay, wife of the counselor to the British embassy, little Kyra Golejevski is the youngest child in the diplomatic corps. She has attained the age of eighteen months.

Both because her time is much taken up by the round of gossamer that constitute a social season in Washington and because she and Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst have the same native land, it is with something like surprise that one learns of Madame Golejevski's genuine interest in and support of equal suffrage.

She is not at all in sympathy with the militant methods by which certain of her countrywomen have won notoriety, and she considers that Mrs. Pankhurst is in the last stages of hysteria. But just the same, Madame Golejevski believes in votes for women, and does not hesitate to express herself to that effect.

Madame Golejevski is especially interested in dramatic art. She is one of several women in public life in Washington who is a writer of plays.

Household Hint.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

Try cleaning chandeliers with a vinegar and salt solution, rubbing vigorously. Wash off this cleanser, for if left on the metal will tarnish. Brighten with tripoli and sweat oil.

Feathers. Divide the feathers into several parts and put them in bags made of cheesecloth or white mosquito netting. Fill the boiler half full of cold water and add one-half cup of borax, or any washing compound you prefer. Clean one bag of feathers at a time. Boil two hours, drain and rinse by pouring hot water over them. Hang on the line and turn the bags frequently. It may take several days to dry them. Beat with a clean fork and polish by rubbing with a clean flannel cloth dipped in sweet oil or cold drawn linseed oil.

THE TABLE.

Macaroni Soup.—Put bones and meat from Sunday's roast of veal in kettle, cover with carrot and any other vegetable stock which may be in the house, or with cold water, about two quarts; add one-half onion, one-half carrot and pepper. Allow to come to boiling point and simmer three hours. Remove all bones and superfluous fat, leaving the nice pieces of meat in the broth. Cook one cup of macaroni broken into inch lengths in just enough boiling salted water to cover, for 10 minutes; drain, rinse in cold water, and add to the soup together with one heaping teaspoonful of chopped parsley and one heaping teaspoonful of chopped green pepper. Boil 20 minutes, stirring often to prevent macaroni sticking to bottom of pan.

Baked Liver.—One pound and a half of calf's or lamb's liver in one or two pieces. Simmer one heaping tablespoonful of finely minced onion in two tablespoons of butter and when soft, brown the liver, which has been dredged with flour, pepper and salt. Turn into butter, pour over wine, salt and pepper. Allow to come to boiling point and simmer three hours. Remove all bones and superfluous fat, leaving the nice pieces of meat in the broth. Cook one cup of macaroni broken into inch lengths in just enough boiling salted water to cover, for 10 minutes; drain, rinse in cold water, and add to the soup together with one heaping teaspoonful of chopped parsley and one heaping teaspoonful of chopped green pepper. Boil 20 minutes, stirring often to prevent macaroni sticking to bottom of pan.

Walnut Cake.—One-half cup of butter, one cup of sugar, three eggs, two egg whites, one-half cup of milk, one and a half cups of flour, one and a half cups of baking powder, three-fourths cup of walnut meats broken into pieces. Cream the butter, add gradually the sugar, then the walnut meats, egg yolks, beaten and milk. Sift the flour mixture thoroughly and vigorously. Sift the baking powder with a little of the flour which has been reserved for that purpose and stir into batter, fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs. Bake in square cake pan, three times and beat into the first mixture thoroughly and vigorously. The Home Beauty Parlor

By Betty Dean

Vera B.: Your skin will grow soft, clear and smooth after a few applications of a plain almond jelly-cream, made at home as follows: Put 4 tablespoons glycerine into 1/2 pint of water and in this dissolve 1 ounce almond (which you can buy at your druggist). Apply a thick coat of this to the skin before retiring, then wash off in the morning and use more of the jelly-cream for massaging. This gradually dispels the wrinkles and lines and banishes pimples, blackheads and the "muddy" oily look. The almond jelly-cream is gentle and will not grow brittle.

Mrs. A. T.: You may not require glasses. Get from your druggist 1 ounce crystal and dissolve in 1 pint water. Then put a few drops in the offending eye several times a day until inflammation and soreness have vanished. This crystal solution is especially good for granular eye-lids and using it strengthens the eyes and gives them a youthful sparkle.

Adeline: The reason for that dryness of hair after your shampoo is because that kind of soap irritates the scalp's (pores) and makes them over-sensitive. Cantharox will correct this, for it is a tonic as well as a cleanser and is so stimulating to the blood-vessels and skin-sensations that the danger is entirely eliminated. To prepare your shampoo, dissolve a teaspoonful of cantharox in a cup of hot water, then pour it slowly on the head as you rub briskly. This dissolves every trace of dirt, dandruff and excess oil and after rinsing, the hair will fall quickly and evenly.

Lucy G.: Loss of weight is a serious matter and calls for prompt action. Get from your druggist 1 ounce lardine and put it, together with 1/2 cupful sugar, into 1/2 pint alcohol, then add hot water to make a full quart. Take a tablespoonful before each meal. This simple home-remedy increases your appetite and gently cleanses the system of impurities, restores a healthy condition to the vital organs. When this is done your weight will be normal and the glow of health will be upon your cheeks.

Mrs. A. R. J.: I make a good lotion that is very helpful to my skin by dissolving a ounce spermacin in 1/2 pint which haze or hot water, to which is added 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine, which will soon correct that oily, shallow, "worn-out" appearance of your complexion. This simple lotion is soothing and healing and imparts a velvety smoothness and natural brightness to the complexion not possible with powder and rouge. You will like the spermacin lotion because it is easily applied and cannot be detected when on.

Lucie: I always use a plain quinine hair tonic, made at home by pouring 1 ounce quinine into 1/2 pint alcohol, then adding 1/2 pint water. Rub a little well into the scalp twice a week and you will soon rid that scalp of dandruff and restore the hair roots to health. The regular use of the quinine tonic will restore the former gloss and color to the hair and make it soft, long and lustrous.

Mrs. M. N. T.: Your excess weight can be easily and quickly reduced by taking the purgative treatment, made at home as follows: Put 4 ounces prunes (which you can get at your drug store), in 1/2 pints hot water and strain when cool. Take a tablespoonful before meals until weight is where you want it. No harm results from the use of the purgative treatment, and the flesh is left soft and the skin soft and smooth.

Heart and Home Problems

By Mrs. Elizabeth Thompson

Thompson: I have had a doctor in my life, and am deeply in love with my doctor. He is a married man and I am a married woman.

I still have to take treatments every other day and that is the only bright spot in my life. Seeing him, I do not care for my husband and I am a married woman.

I don't think that if you were trying to keep your husband's love and respect and in making a beautiful home for your family that you would have time to be in love with another man?

Your case is a common case. A lot of women are in love with their doctors. The poor doctors have to stand a good deal because of these women—gossip which hurts their business, keeping the woman pacified so they can keep her business.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Will you please tell us how to clean tan and black nubuck slippers? (2) Is it right for girls to attend ball games on Sunday afternoon? (3) When a boy comes up to accompany a girl home and he does not ask to do so and you don't want him to, what should you tell him? (4) Is it right for a girl of fifteen years of age to go out walking with a boy? (5) Is it right for a crowd of young girls to attend dances? (6) When meeting a boy on the street which should speak first—the girl or boy?

CHUMS.

(1) The shoe stores have a preparation to clean these. The black slippers may be brushed, then rubbed with a bit of fine sandpaper to bring back their velvety appearance. Tan slippers may be brushed, then cleaned with gasoline and rubbed with sandpaper.

(2) Some people think there should be no ball games on Sunday. I say as long as it is a good way as any to keep young people out of mischief on a dull Sunday afternoon. If our parents do not object I see no reason why you should not attend.

(3) You can walk away from him and go with somebody else.

(4) There is no harm if he is a respectable boy friend and your parents have given their consent.

(5) It depends upon the kind of dances. I do not approve of public dances, my dears.

(6) It is the girl's place to recognize the boy first. Among old friends, however, this formality is not observed closely.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: There is a certain friend of ours that we have heard several things about that are not very nice and we have been with her as much as anybody and never saw or heard her do anything out of the way. No one has told us anything except one girl whom we have known to tell falsehoods. Please advise us what to do.

CHUMS.

If you know your girl friend to be all right and that the other girl tells falsehoods, there is only one thing to do and that is to stand up for your friend.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I have been going with a regular young man for some time. Lately I heard things about him from some of my friends. Should I cast him aside or not listen to what they say?

(2) How long must a girl stand to be a teacher?

(3) I would suggest that you go to your father, elder brother or some trustworthy man relative, and ask him to give you an honest opinion about this young man. Just say that you have heard things which cast a doubt upon his being proper associate for you, but that you don't want to judge him on gossip only.

(4) As a rule she is expected to graduate from high school and then take a normal school course.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—Father and Mother Seem to Be Two of a Kind—

MRS. THOMSON TELLS WOMEN

How She Was Helped During Change of Life by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"I am just 52 years of age and during Change of Life I suffered for six years terribly. I tried several doctors but none seemed to give me any relief. Every month the pains were intense in both sides, and made me so weak that I had to go to bed. At last a friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for what it has done for me, and shall always recommend it as a woman's friend. You are at liberty to use my letter in any way."—Mrs. Thomson, 649 W. Russell St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Compound to me and I tried it at once and found much relief. After that I had no pains at all and could do my housework and shopping the same as always. For years I have praised Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for what it has done for me, and shall always recommend it as a woman's friend. You are at liberty to use my letter in any way."—Mrs. Thomson, 649 W. Russell St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Change of life is one of the most critical periods of a woman's existence. Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to carry women so successfully through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Rickey's small arm went suddenly out and her fingers tore at his shirtband. "Don't you," she burst in a paroxysm of passion; "don't you even speak her name! If you do, I'll kill you!"

So fierce was her leap that he fell back a step in sheer surprise. Then he laughed loudly. "Why, ye little spittin' wile-cat!" he grinned.

He leaned suddenly, gripped her wrist and covering her mouth tightly with his palm, dragged her behind a clump of dogwood bushes. A heavy step was coming along the wood-path. He held her motionless and breathless. In this cruel grip till the pedestrian had passed. It was Major Bristow, his spruce white hat on the back of his head, his unbuttoned waistcoat dappled with the leaf-shadows. He stepped out briskly toward Damory court, swinging his stick, all unconscious of the fierce scrutiny bent on him from behind the dogwoods.

Grief King did not withdraw his hand till the steps had died in the distance. When he did, he clenched his fist and shook it in the air. "There he goes!" he said with bitter hatred.

"Ye noble friend that sent me up for six years 't break my heart on 't rock-pile! Oh, he's a top-notch, he is! But he's got Grief King to reckon with yet!" He looked at her balefully and shook her.

"Look-a-ye," he said in a hissing voice. "Ye remember me. I'm a bad one ter fool with. Yer maw foun' that out, I reckon. Now ye'll promise me ye'll tell nobody who ye've seen. I'm only a tramp; d'ye hear?" He shook her roughly.

Rickey's fingers and teeth were clenched hard and she said no word. He shook her again violently, the blood pouring into his scarred face. "Ye snivelin' brat, ye!" he snarled. "I'll show yer!" He began to drag her after him through the bushes. A few yards and they were on the brink of the headlong ugly chasm of Lover's Leap. She cast one desperate look about her and shut her eyes. Catching her about the waist he leaned over and held her out in mid-air, as if she had been a kitten. "Ye ain't seen me, hey yer? Promise, or over ye go. Ye won't look so pretty when ye're layin' down there on them rocks!"

The child's face was paper-white and she had begun to tremble like a leaf, but her eyes remained closed.

"One—two—" he counted deliberately.

Her eyes opened. She turned one shuddering glance below, then her resolution broke. She clutched his arm and broke into wild supplications. "I promise, I promise!" she cried. "Oh, don't let go! I promise!"

He set her on the solid ground and released her, looking at her with a sneering laugh. "Now we'll see if ye belong here or up ter Hell's-Hall-Acre," he said. "Fine folks keeps their promises, I've heerd tell."

Rickey looked at him a moment shaking; then she burst into a passion of sobs and with her face averted ran from him like a deer through the bushes.

CHAPTER XXX.

In the Rain.

Shirley stood looking out at the rain. It was falling in no steady downpour which held forth promise of ending, but with a gentle constancy that gave the hills a look of sudden discomfort and made disconsolate miry pools by the roadside. The clouds were not too thick, however, to let through a dismal gray brightness that shone on the foliage and touched with glistening lines of high-light the drooping tufts of the soaked blue-grass. Now and then, across the dripping fields, fraying skeins of mist wandered, to lie curled in the flooded hollows where, here and there, cattle stood lowing at intervals in a mournful key.

The indoors had become impossible to her. She was sick of trying to read, sick of the endless pacings and purposeless invention of needless tasks. She wanted movement, the cobwebby mist about her knees, the wet rain in her face. She ran upstairs and came down clad in a close scarlet jersey, with leather garters and a soft hat.

Emmaline saw her thus accoutered with disapproval. "Lawdy-mercy, child!" she urged; "you ain't goin' out! It's rainin' cats en dogs!"

"I'm neither sugar nor salt, Emmaline," responded Shirley listlessly, dragging on her rain-coat, "and the walk will do me good."

On the sopping lawn she glanced up at her mother's window. Since the night of the ball her own pangs of self-consciousness had overlaid the fine and sensitive association between them. She had been full of horrible feeling that her face must betray her and the cause of her loss of spirits he guessed.

Her mother, had, in fact, been troubled by this, but was far from guessing the truth. A somewhat long indisposition had followed her first sight of Valiant, and she had not witnessed the tournament. She had hung upon Shirley's description of it, however, with an excited interest that the other was later to translate in the light of her own discovery. If the thought had fitted to her that fate might hold something deeper than friendship in Shirley's acquaintance with Valiant, it had been of the vaguest. His choice of her as Queen of Beauty had seemed a natural homage to that swift and unflinching act of hers which had saved his life. There was in her mind a more obvious explanation of Shirley's altered demeanor. "Perhaps it's Chilly Lusk," she had said to herself. "Have they had a foolish quarrel, I wonder? Ah, well, in her own time she will tell me."

There was some relief to Shirley's overcharged feelings in the very discomfort of the drenched weather: the sucking pull of the wet clay on her boots and the flit of the drops on her cheeks and hair. She thrust her dogskin gloves into her pocket and held her arms outstretched to let the wind blow through her fingers. The moisture clung in damp wreaths to her hair and rolled in great drops down her coat as she went.

The wildest, most secluded walks had always drawn her most and she instinctively chose one of these today. It was the road whereon squatted Mad Anthony's whitewashed cabin. "Dah's man gwine look in dem eyes, honey, er man gwine make 'em cry en cry." She had forgotten the incident of that day, when he had read her fortune, but now the quivering prophecy came back to her with a shivering sense of reality. "Fo' dah's shan en shan ain' afear'd, en dah's watah en shan ain' afear'd. Et's de thing what eat de ha't outen de bread—dat watah she afear'd of!" If it were only fire and water that threatened her!

She struck her hands together with an inarticulate cry. She remembered the laugh in Valiant's eyes as they had planted the roses, the characteristic gesture with which he tossed the waying hair from his forehead—how she had named the ducks and the peacocks and chosen the spots for his flowers; and she smiled for such memories, even to the stabbing knowledge that these dear trivial things could mean nothing to her in the future. She tried to realize that he was gone from her life, that he was the one man on earth whom to marry would be to strike to the heart her love and loyalty to her mother; and she said this over and over to herself in varying phrases.

"You can't! No matter how much you love him, you can't! His father deliberately ruined your mother's life—your own mother! It's bad enough to love him—you can't help that! But you can help marrying him. You would hate yourself. You can never kiss him again; or feel his arms around you. You can't touch his hand. You mustn't even see him. Not if it breaks your heart—as your mother's heart was broken!"

She had turned into an unbeaten way that abled from the road through a track of tall oaks and pines, scarce more than a bridle-path, winding aimlessly through bracken-strewn depths so dense that even the wild-roses had not found them. In her childish haste she had always fled to the companionship of the trees. She had known them every one—the black-gum and pale dogwood and gnarled hickory, the prickly-balled "button-wood," the lowly mulberry and the majestic red oak and walnut. They had seemed friendly and pitying counselors, standing about her with arms intertwined. Now, with the rain weeping in sighing gusts through them, they offered her no comfort. She suddenly threw herself face down on the soaked moss.

"Oh, God!" she cried. "I love him so! And I had only that one evening. It doesn't seem just. If I could only have him—and suffer some other way! He's suffering, too, and it isn't our fault! We neither of us harmed anyone! He isn't responsible for what his father did—why, he hardly knew him! Oh, God, why must it be so hard for us? Millions of other people love each other and nothing separates them like this!"

Shirley's warm breath made a little fog against the star-eyed moss. She was scarcely conscious of her wet and clinging clothing, and the soaked strands of her hair. She was so wrapped in her desolation that she no longer heard the sound of the persevering rain and the wet swishing of the bushes—padding now to a hurried step that fell almost without sound on the spongy forest soil. She started up suddenly to see Valiant before her.

He was in a somewhat battered walking suit of brown khaki, with a leather belt and a felt hat whose brim, stiff with the wet, was curved down visor-wise over his brow. In an instant he had drawn her upright, and they stood, looking at each other, drenched and trembling.

"How can you?" he said with a roughness that sounded akin to anger. "Here in this atrocious weather—like this!" he laid a hand on her arm. "You're wet through."

"I—I don't mind the rain," she answered, drawing away, yet feeling with a guilty thrill the masterfulness of his tone, as well as its real concern. "I'm often wet."

His gaze searched her face, feature by feature, noting her pallor, the blue-black shadows beneath her eyes, the caught breath, uneven like a child's from crying. He still held her hands in his.

Easy Money

"I sold seven dollars worth of eggs this spring, for setting," said a man to his neighbor the other morn as they walked to work.
"No?"
"Fact!"
"Well, you can make your hens pay. How did you do it?"
"Ran an ad in our home paper stating we had eggs for hatching. The rest was easy. So many people are going in for hens that we were kept busy answering the phone and putting up the eggs."
"I never thought much of the want ad page, you show it up in a new light to me."
"To be candid we did not either, but we've changed our minds. Why we received answers from towns around here calling for eggs; towns as far as thirty miles away. Guess the want ad page is all its claimed to be, and a little bit more."
What has the want ad page done for you in the way of helping you to buy or sell? Do you realize its power?

O'SHAUGHNESSY HANDED PASSPORTS BY HUERTA GOVERNMENT TODAY

Twelve Americans Killed And Fifty Wounded Is The Total Casualties Entailed By The Capture Of Vera Cruz. City Now Under Control Of Admiral Badgers Forces.

WILSON PREPARING STATEMENT

Tampico Expected To Be The Next Scene Of Conflict. Doubt Exists As To Carranza And The Rebel Leaders Attitude War Preparations Continue To Be Rushed. Will Place Embargo On Arms.

(Special to the Gazette.)

Washington, April 23.—Nelson O'Shaughnessy, American Charge D'Affairs at Mexico City, has been handed his passports.

Twelve Americans have been killed and fifty wounded at Vera Cruz.

After two days fighting the American Naval forces are in possession of the entire city.

When Senor Algara, chief of the Mexican Embassy, was informed early today by attaches of his office that Huerta had given Mr. O'Shaughnessy his pass ports he made no comment but stated he would make an announcement later.

Algara, it is expected, would notify the state department of instructions from Mexico City to leave his post.

Secretary Lane, the first cabinet member to leave the White House, said the President would issue a statement during the day outlining definitely the policy that will be pursued in Mexico.

It was understood that this would deal particularly with the situation in the north of Mexico as indicated in the Carranza note.

General Carranza, the constitutionalist chief, has addressed a note to the American government resenting the attack on Vera Cruz. He characterizes it as a hostile act against the Mexican nation in "Violation of national sovereignty" and "Invites the United States to withdraw."

This is the situation which confronted President Wilson and the administration today.

The President, Secretary Bryan and Garrison and Major General Wotherspoon, chief of staff of the army, were awakened at an early hour today and discussed the latest developments.

Officials here stated that Algara would undoubtedly ask this government for his pass ports before leaving Washington.

Whether or not this would be granted would be problematical owing to the non-recognition of the Huerta Government.

The restoration of the embargo on arms has been recommended and final action on this point was expected during the day.

ESTABLISH EMBARGO ON ARMS TO MEXICO LATEST WAR ORDER

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

San Antonio, Tex., April 23.—Headquarters of the southern division of the United States army were instructed early this morning to establish at once the embargo on arms and ammunition in Mexico. This statement was made at Fort Sam Houston.

Washington, April 23.—Official announcement of the restoration of the embargo on arms at the Mexican border has not been made here, but on high authority it was stated that orders had been sent early today to stop all consignment of arms and ammunition to Mexico.

The report from San Antonio that such an order had been received was not doubted in official circles.

AMERICANS OWN MOST OF THE PROPERTY IN MEXICO

Estimate made today in financial circles of the amount of interest held in Mexico by the United States as compared with other powers, show:

Property owned by Americans	$1,057,770,000
Property owned by Mexicans	793,137,242
Property owned by British	780,525,000
French financial interest (estimated)	1,000,000,000

EIGHT AMERICANS, 150 MEXICANS DIE IN FIRST BATTLE; SHIPS SHELL CITY

DETAILED ACCOUNT OF WEDNESDAY'S FIGHTING AT PORT OF VERA CRUZ.

IN COMPLETE CONTROL

Mexicans Make Stubborn Resistance at Naval College, But Fire From Ships Put Them to Rout.

(By Associated Press.)

Vera Cruz, April 23.—Early yesterday afternoon the city of Vera Cruz was in the undisputed possession of American invading forces. Although no organized force was used against them, the "snipers" were less in evidence than at any time during the fight.

Eight Americans Killed.

Eight Americans were killed and some thirty wounded. While the Mexicans suffered more severely, the number of their casualties has not been ascertained. The best estimate obtained by Captain Wm. R. Rush of the battleship Florida, indicated that in the engagement of Tuesday and Wednesday their death number amounted to 150.

No person knows how many Mexicans fell wounded, as the larger part of them were taken away and hidden by friends. In the street about the Plaza Wednesday afternoon there lay fifteen or twenty bodies, most of them attired in citizens' clothing.

At ten o'clock Wednesday morning the Americans were in undisputed possession of all the city except the southwestern part, in which the barracks are situated, and a few outlying districts. At noon they had taken the barracks.

Naval College Resists.

The most spirited fighting of Wednesday was the taking of the naval academy. Aside from that there was no definitely organized opposition attempted to the Americans.

A hot fire was poured into the advancing Americans from the naval college which for a time held them back, but a few well directed shots from the cruisers Chester and San Francisco and the Terry tore gaping holes in the stone walls and silenced the rifle fire of the Mexicans inside. The blue jackets then pushed the work they had in hand. The Jackies stood their ground pluckily. Some of them clung to the wall to avoid the rain of steel jacketed bullets from above, while some leaped across the small open space directly in front of the building.

The blue jackets dropped on their stomachs and lifted their rifles high in order to get a range on the windows above. Finally the American officers hustled their men either forward or backward and finally got them in the shelter of the nearby buildings. The Jackies in front held their places, however, and the Terry sent shells from the three-inch battery into the windows of the college.

Buildings Shelled.
Huge columns of red gaps leaped up as each shot went home. The Chester also joined in and with her six-inch shells tore great gaps in the roof of the college.

Far to the right in the harbor the San Francisco also opened with her five-inch guns and taking the front of the college shot out window by window, pointing shells with the precision of target practice.

After fifteen minutes firing from the Terry and the Chester the Jackies formed again and pushed ahead displaying around the front of the college. A few shots were directed at them but none came from the college. The Chester continued hurling shells into any building where "snipers" lurked and also far out into the suburbs.

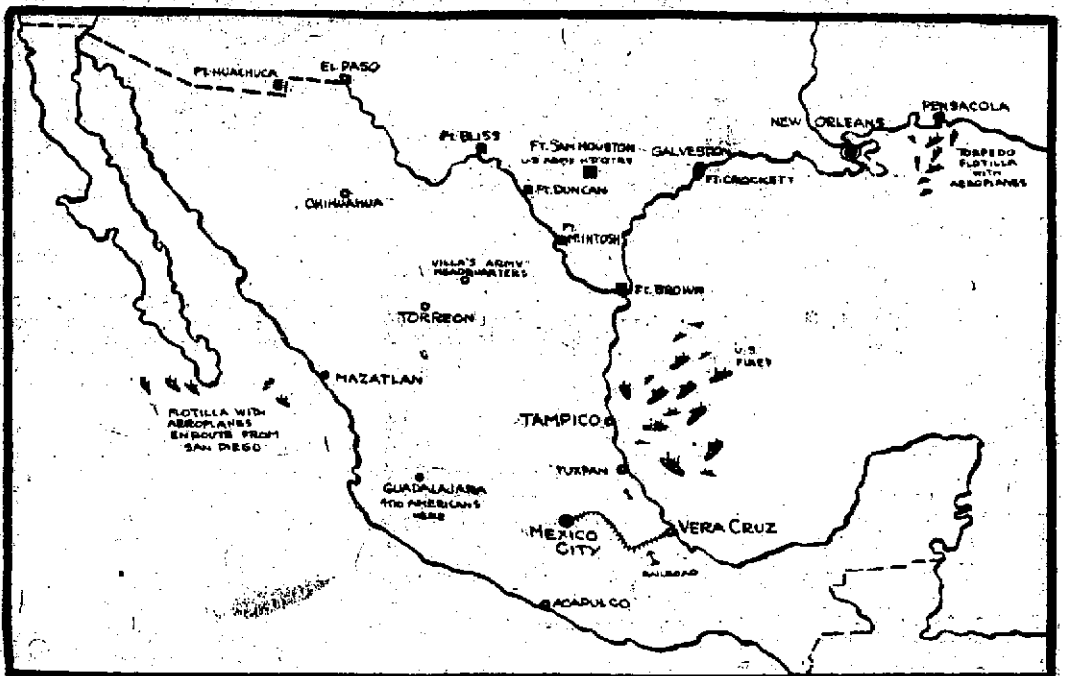

The Jackies went steadily on without faltering, spreading out through the water front section, seizing the higher buildings, and organized a squad of guards at street intersections.

Americans at Hotel.
In the Villagencia hotel there were forty Americans, most of them women who had been there since the beginning of hostilities. When the Square was taken they were immediately notified that they might go to other places if they so desired, but that they would probably incur no further danger by remaining in the hotel.

It was not until late Tuesday that the last of General Maas' men on the top of the hotel received written orders from outside the city to vacate their positions.

The order was obeyed by a portion of the hundred men who were occu-

VERA CRUZ, TAKEN BY THE UNITED STATES, IS THE CHIEF PORT OF MEXICO

VERA CRUZ, which was occupied Tuesday by marines from the United States warships under command of Admiral Fletcher, is the principal seaport of Mexico, and is the gateway to the City of Mexico. Hundreds of ocean-going vessels enter its harbor every year, the port statistics for the fiscal year of 1909-10 showing 450 entrances and clearances, not including any of the vessels in strictly coastwise trade.

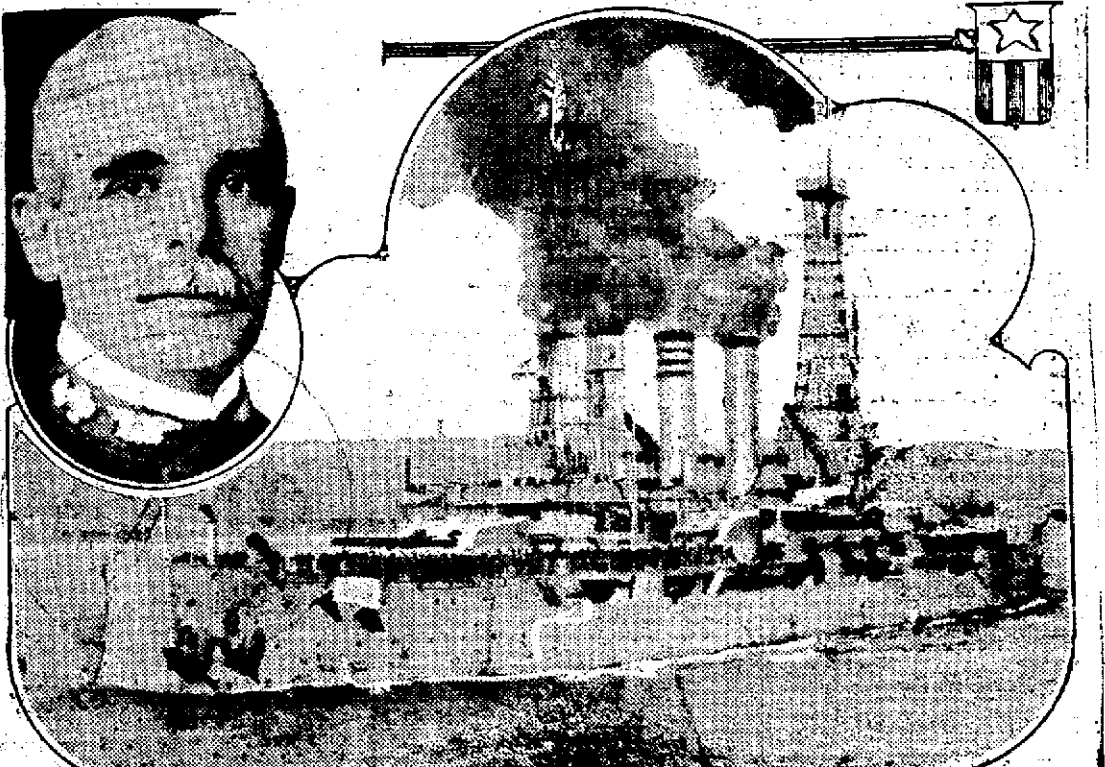

Eight great passenger and freight lines connect Vera Cruz with Galveston, Texas City, New Orleans, New York, Cuba, the West Indies and the principal ports of Europe. Coastwise trade in and out of Vera Cruz harbor also is enormous, lines of ships connecting it with all the principal ports on the east coast of Mexico.

Vera Cruz has passed through many phases, but the tide of wealth has increased continually year by year. It has a population of 47,500, besides a large floating element that comes and goes with the seasons and the tides.

LOADING TRANSPORT AT NEW ORLEANS WITH MUNITIONS OF WAR

A scene of hustle without the least confusion occurred at New Orleans a few days ago when the transport Hancock, now at Tampico, was being loaded with munitions of war. Beside the 900 marines who went aboard the vessel, plenty of ammunition for emergencies was included in the cargo, and several light rapid-fire guns, generally used to reinforce landing parties, were hoisted aboard.

Battleship Louisiana and her commander, Captain John H. Gibbons. The battleship Louisiana, which was a day behind the other battleships in getting away to Mexico, is now nearing Mexican waters. The ship is commanded by Captain John H. Gibbons and is the flagship of Admiral Bouch of the second division of the North Atlantic squadron.

The Evening Chit-Chat BY RUTH CAMERON

THE DUTY ON "BLUFF"
IT is unfortunate that so many Americans accept money as the standard of the man. A man with a great deal of money is very successful, a man with very little is not. And as we all want to appear very successful, we like to pretend we have money, whether we have it or not.

It is this senseless pretense that is killing much of the pleasure in life. "I never saw anything like the way Americans tip," a much-travelled Englishman told me. "Coming over on the steamer, I heard my steward talking with another. They were comparing their tips."

"Well, said my steward, I've got another American down here; he'll probably give me a pound, and there's an Englishman in 33, at he won't give me more than five bob."

The steward, knowing human nature, knew that he could expect three dollars and a half more from the American than he could from the Englishman. Not because he had rendered more service to one than to the other, but simply because one was American, the other English.

This is true all over the world. In some places those who fatten on tourists will appear in droves when an American ship arrives, and in handfuls when an English ship docks.

It would be nice to think that this was generosity on the part of the American. But it isn't. The Englishman tips for services rendered, a certain stated amount. The American tips for show, as much as he can afford, sometimes more.

There are some people who can stand the strain. But there are other Americans who, following in their wake and traveling on a certain sum they have saved and which should cover all contingencies, are forced either to tip beyond their means, or suffer that annoyance which a servant can always subject you to, if he tries.

The practice of tipping, as far as Americans go, has grown all out of proportion. Those who wait upon us, when we travel, expect us to tip not for what they do, but for what we are, or what we try to appear to be—financially.

I have had a very interesting experience the last year and a half. I am a married man and I am a married woman. I still have to take treatments every other day, and that is the only bright spot in my life. Seeing him, I do not care for my family and what would you advise me to do?

IN LOVE.
Do not tell you were busy trying to keep your husband's love and respect and in making a beautiful home for your family that you wouldn't have much time to be in love with another man?

Your case is a common case. A lot of women are in love with their husbands. The poor doctors have to stand a good deal, because of these women—crossing which hinders their business, keeping the woman pacified so they can keep her business, pacifying their own wives if they are jealous, etc. A doctor has a hard row to hoe, considering all the women patients who think they are in love with him. I have no doubt your doctor has other women patients who think they are in love with him, too.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Will you please tell us how to clean tan and black nubuck slippers? (2) Is it right for girls to attend ball games on Sunday afternoon? (3) When a boy comes up to accompany a girl home and he does not ask to do so and you don't want him to, what should you tell him? (4) Is it right for a girl of fifteen years of age to go out walking with a boy? (5) Is it right for a crowd of young girls to attend dances? (6) When meeting a boy on the street which should speak first—the girl or boy?

CHUMS.
(1) The shoe stores have a preparation to clean these. The black slippers may be brushed, then rubbed with a bit of fine sandpaper to bring back their velvety appearance. Tan slippers may be brushed, then cleaned with gasoline and rubbed with sandpaper.

(2) Some people think there should be no ball games on Sunday. Personally I think it is as good a way as any to keep young people out of mischief on a dull Sunday afternoon. If our parents do not object I see no reason why you should not attend.

(3) You can walk away from him and with somebody else. There is no harm in him if he is a respectable boy friend and your parents have given their consent.

(4) It depends upon the kind of dances. I do not approve of public dances, my dear.

(5) It is the girl's place to recognize the boy first. Among old friends, however, this formality is not observed closely.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: There is a certain friend of ours that we have the way. No one has told us anything about things about that are not very nice and we have been with her as much as anybody and never saw or heard her do anything out of the way. No one has told us anything except one girl, whom we have known to tell falsehoods. Please advise us what to do.

CHUMS.
If you know your girl friend to be all right and that the other girl tells falsehoods, there is only one thing to do and that is to stand up for your friend.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I have been going with a popular young man for some time. Lately I heard things about him from some of my girl friends. Should I cast him aside or not listen to what they say? (2) How long must a girl study to be a teacher? READY. (1) I would suggest that you go to your father, elder brother or some trustworthy man, relative, and ask him to give you an honest opinion about this young man. Just say that you have heard things which cast a doubt upon his being a proper associate for you, but that you don't want to judge him on gossip only.

(2) As a rule she is expected to graduate from high school and then take a normal school course.

A CHAPTER ON NUTS.

The housewives are certainly falling in line with the progressive movement in regard to the menus using nuts, as our reports tell us of the thousands of bushels of increase each year in the United States' consumption.

The black walnut heads the list in nutritive value, is rich in oil and liked by many, although its strong flavor is not liked at first.

In any locality the nut that is there found in plenty should be used as a large part of the diet. The hickory nut is a most delicately flavored nut and most nutritious. When very dry if they are dipped in boiling water and allowed to stand a while before cracking the meats will come out in much better shape.

Walnut Loaf.—Take a pint of dry bread crumbs, one and a half cups of chopped nuts (do not grind them, as it makes them oily and really spoils the flavor if not used at once), season well with salt, add a bit of sage, two tablespoons of butter, one beaten egg and sufficient boiling water to moisten. Form into a loaf loaf and bake in a granite pan.

Peanut Meatloaf.—Mix well a cupful of cornstarch in two cups of tomato juice, add two cups of peanut butter and two tablespoons of salt. Stir for five minutes, then steam for five hours.

Stuffed Potatoes.—Bake nice, smooth, even-sized potatoes, remove the potato and season well with salt, pepper and butter and a generous portion of ground or chopped nuts. Refill the shells, heat and serve at once.

Peanut Soup.—Soak a pint and a half of shelled peanuts over night in two quarts of water. In the morning add three quarts of water, a bay leaf, a piece of celery, a slice of onion and a blade of mace. Cook five hours very slowly, put through a sieve, add seasonings and a cupful of cream and serve very hot.

Women Worth While

MADAME GOLEJEVSKI.

By Selene Armstrong-Harmon.
Madame Nicolai Golejevski, wife of the military attaché of the Russian embassy at Washington, is by birth an English woman. And like all English women, she is athletic. Madame Golejevski is unique in that her favorite sport is an indoor one, and a sport in which few women have either interest or proficiency. This sport is fencing. Whether or not Madame Golejevski owes to her daily exercise with the foil her readiness of carriage and her superb health is known best. Anyway, the day never passes without a fencing match. Madame Golejevski declares that the sport has more to recommend it than an indoor game, and her husband, a woman is not enthusiastic over it simply because she is acquainted with the sport.

Madame Golejevski's interests, however, do not center in sports. She is the proud and happy mother of two small daughters, Sornia and Klara. With the exception of the eleven-months-old son of Mrs. Colville Barclay, wife of the counselor to the British embassy, little Klara Golejevski is the youngest child in the diplomatic corps in the last stages of infancy.

Both because her time is much taken up by the round of gayeties that constitute a social season in Washington, and because she and Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst have the same native land, it is with something like surprise that one learns of Madame Golejevski's genuine interest in and support of equal suffrage. She is not at all in sympathy with the militant methods by which certain of her countrywomen have won notoriety, and she considers that Mrs. Pankhurst is in the last stages of hysteria. But just the same, Madame Golejevski believes in votes for women, and does not hesitate to express herself to that effect.

Madame Golejevski is especially interested in dramatic art. She is one of several women in public life in Washington who is a writer of plays.

Household Hints

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.
Try cleaning chandeliers with a vinegar and salt solution. Rubbing vigorously. Wash off this cleanser, if it left on the metal will tarnish. Brighten with tripoli and sweet oil.

To wash feathers. Divide the feathers into several parts, and put them in bags made of cheesecloth or white mosquito netting. Fill the boiler half full of cold water, add one-half cup of borax or any washing compound you prefer. Clean one bag of feathers at a time. Boil two hours, drain and rinse by pouring hot water over them. Hang on the line and turn the bags frequently. It may take several days to dry them. Beat with a feather duster, then clean them in a hot, windy day if possible.

To remove stains on mahogany use oxalic acid and water, rubbing it on with a clean cork until the stain disappears. Mahogany can be polished by rubbing with a clean flannel cloth dipped in sweet oil or cold drawn linseed oil.

THE TABLE.

Macaroni Soup.—Put bones and meat from Sunday's roast of veal in kettle, cover with carrot and any other vegetable stock which may be in the house, or with cold water, about two quarts, add one-half onion minced, one salt and pepper. Allow to come to boiling point and simmer three hours. Remove all bones, and superfluous fat, leaving the nice pieces of meat in the broth. Cook one cup of macaroni broken into inch lengths in just enough boiling salted water to cover, for 10 minutes; drain, rinse in cold water, and add to the soup together with one heaping teaspoonful of chopped parsley and one heaping teaspoonful of chopped green pepper. Boil 20 minutes, stirring often to prevent macaroni sticking to bottom of pan.

Baked Liver.—One pound and a half of calf's or lamb's liver in one of two pieces. Sprinkle one heaping tablespoonful of finely minced onion in two tablespoons of butter, and when soft, brown the liver, which has been dredged with flour, pepper and salt, in this. Turn into baking pan, cover with the onion and butter drippings, cut several gasches in liver and in them place very thin strips of salt pork; add one-half cup of water and cover pan. Place in moderate oven and bake three-quarters of an hour, uncovering last 15 minutes and basting if necessary. Remove pan to hot platter, and make gravy in usual manner.

Egg Surprise.—If left over mashed potatoes are too dry add a little warm milk and beat them until creamy. Cover bottom of individual baking dishes with the potatoes, dot with butter and into each one, break an egg. Sprinkle with pepper and salt and bake in moderate oven until eggs are set.

Campanile Sauce.—One pint espagnole, one-half pint sherry wine, one-half pint of vinegar. Sugar to sweeten to taste. Simmer the sherry and vinegar in separate vessels and mix sugar and espagnole, beat and ready bones and meat, until brown without onion, one chopped carrot, one chopped onion, one chopped turnip, one tablespoonful parsley, thyme, marjoram, bay leaves, cloves, allspice, pepper. Brown two table-spoonfuls flour and moisten gradually with good stock to make desired consistency. Add one cup tomatoes, one carcass chicken. Simmer slowly over slow fire three hours. Add one wineglass cherry wine and strain. This properly cooked, put in Mason jar and kept in cool place will keep indefinitely and may be used in quantities as needed.

Walnut Cake.—One-half cup of butter, one cup of sugar, three eggs yolks, two egg whites, one-half cup of milk, one and a half cups of flour, one and a half teaspoonfuls baking powder, three-fourths cup of walnuts broken into pieces. Cream the butter, add gradually the sugar, then the walnut meats, egg yolks, beaten and milk. Sift the flour, three and a half teaspoonfuls of baking powder thoroughly and vigorously. Sift the baking powder with a little of the flour which has been reserved for that purpose and stir into batter. Fold in the stillly beaten whites of the eggs. Bake in square cake pan 35 minutes in moderate oven. When cool, ice with following: One cup granulated sugar, one-third cup of water, whites of one egg, one-quarter teaspoonful of cream of tartar, one-half teaspoonful vanilla. Beat the sugar, cream of tartar and water together until it threads. Do not stir. Pour the syrup slowly into the stillly beaten egg white. Beat until cool enough to spread, then add the vanilla. After icing cake

Yeta B.—Your skin will be soft, clear and smooth after a few applications of a plain quinzoin made at home as follows: Put 4 ounce of glycerine into 1/2 pint of water and in this dissolve 1 ounce of quinzoin. You can buy at your druggist's supply a thick coat of this to the skin before bedtime, then wash off in the morning and use more of the jelly cream when massaging the face.

Mrs. A. T.—You may require more of the jelly cream when massaging the face. Put 1 ounce of quinzoin in 1/2 pint of water. Then put a few drops of the following eye-sewer and wash 2 or 3 times a day in morning and evening. This cures eye-ache and is especially good for granulated eye-lids and weak eye-strengthens the eyes and gives them a sparkling sparkle.

Adding.—The reason for that dryness of hair after your shampoo is because that kind of soap dries the scalp and makes the hair over-dry. Canthor will correct this for it is a tonic as well as a cleanser. It is stimulating to the blood vessels and scalp, so that the danger is entirely eliminated. To prepare your shampoo, dissolve a teaspoonful of Canthor in a quart of water. Wash the hair in a bowl of hot water, then dip slowly on the head as you rub, briskly. This dissolves every trace of dirt, dandruff and excess oil, and after rinsing the hair will dry quickly and evenly.

Lucy C.—Loss of weight is a serious matter, and calls for prompt action. Get from your druggist 1 ounce of quinzoin and put it together with 1/2 cupful sugar, into 1/2 pint of alcohol, then add hot water to make a quart. Take a tablespoonful before sprinkle thickly while the icing is still wet enough to retain them. To serve, cut into two-inch squares.

"WOMEN WILL NAME NEXT PRESIDENT"

Mrs. Medill McCormick.

At the annual campaign rally of the National Woman Suffrage association in New York the other evening, Mrs. Medill McCormick, daughter of the late Senator Mark Hanna, was cheered to the echo when she asserted that "by 1916 women will hold the balance of power in the electoral college, and they look to the Democrats in power to solve the question of equal rights."

"I sold seven dollars worth of eggs this spring, for setting," said a man to his neighbor the other morn as they walked to work.

"No?"

"Fact!"

"Well, you can make your hens pay. How did you do it?"

"Ran an ad in our home paper stating we had eggs for hatch-ling. The rest was easy. So many people are going in for hens that we were kept busy answering the phone and putting up the eggs."

"I never thought much of the want ad page, you show it up in a new light to me."

"To be candid we did not either, but we've changed our minds. Why we received answers from towns around here calling for eggs; towns as far as thirty miles away. Guess the want ad page is all its claimed to be, and a little bit more."
